Why Workers' Compensation is Important

---

Accidents happen.

While no one wants to be injured on-the-job, it's important that you're covered in the event of an emergency. That's where workers' compensation comes into play. This coverage is available to anyone who is injured while doing their job or anyone who gets sick from doing their job.

What should you do if you're injured at work?

Report your work injury or illness to your doctor, your HR department and your supervisor at work.

Visit a medical provider for care (don't wait until after you receive workers' compensation).

Ensure your medical records mention the circumstances of your work-related injury or illness.

Speak with your employer about workers' compensation. You are covered for all on-the-job injuries, even if you were at fault!

Give our office a call. Our attorneys can help you file the correct paperwork and ensure that your workers' compensation claim is processed in a timely manner.

We hope that everyone is off to a happy and healthy start to 2016!

In the unfortunate event your or a family member does experience an on-the-job accident, know that we're here to help. Our attorneys will work alongside you to ensure you receive the compensation you are entitled to.
