The Attorneys at Pyrros & Serres LLP Explain Workers' Compensation

What is Workers' Compensation?

Job related injuries and illnesses can be frustrating. Fortunately, workers' compensation is in place to make sure that workers and their families receive proper care and compensation while they recover.

Workers' Compensation is a form of insurance that every employer or company must maintain in case one of their employees or workers gets hurt on the job.

This insurance is in place to do two basic things:

1. Pay for the medical care/attention you require as a result of your accident or work related illness.
2. Pay for a percentage of your lost salary while you are out of work.

Workers' compensation is completely covered by your employer. This means that employees don't have to pay anything out of pocket to qualify for workers' compensation insurance.

It also doesn't matter who is at fault. Whether you, your coworker, or your boss is at fault, you will still receive the compensation you are entitled to in the unfortunate event you are hurt on the job.

Workers' Compensation
Includes Injuries Related To:

On-The-Job Injuries
Factory Machinery Accidents
